AS OTHERS SEE US.

The St. Louis Republican thus speaks of the State of Nevada:

What is to be done with the State of Nevada is becoming a question of some interest to the remnant of its population. It is admitted that the bottom has fallen out of the Comstock lode, and as the Comstock lode was, to all practical interests and purposes, Nevada, there is not much left of the latter but the empty shell, from which the kernel has been taken.

Nevada was the golden youth of the Union when it was admitted; the mines, which constituted almost its only wealth, were supposed to be inexhaustible, and the white and yellow bricks they yielded had an effect on the money markets that was felt throughout the world. The State was organized on a magnificent basis. The Governor's salary was $6,000; the Lieutenant-Governor's, $3,600; with $1,500 additional as State Librarian; the three Judges of the Supreme Court received $7,000 each, and the other State officers and members of legislature were provided for with similar munificence. These salaries were thought proper enough in the State's golden age.

But the 300,000,000 taken from the Comstock lode has exhausted that wonderful deposit of treasure and left Nevada a beggarly State. Its millionaires have fled to San Francisco and New York to spend their wealth. The wives of some of them have taken their share of it and gone to Paris, where they are living in an opulence peculiar to their own. The enterprising mining classes have gone to Arizona to pursue the quest of gold in that new and more promising territory. Virginia City, the capital, has lost its splendor and glory, like Tyre and Sidon, and the inhabitants of the State who are left are beginning to wonder how they are to maintain a government with such a brilliant outfit out of their scanty gulch scratchings and the little crops they raise in the valleys. There is talk of calling a constitutional convention to reduce official salaries to a more modest level, and it is even suggested that it may be necessary to allow the State Government to lapse and let Nevada become a territory, or else divide it up among California, Utah and Arizona.

It is sometimes advantageous "to see ourselves as others see us," although the view from the outside and from the inside of a shell may differ, still an exhausted mine is nevertheless a shell and valueless. With the present outlook in our State, it will be difficult to convince our people that a return to $3,600 per annum for Lieutenant-Governor is a step in the right direction, or that it is necessary to pay State Judges $7,000 per annum and traveling expenses for services on the east side of main street in Carson, while Judges Sawyer and Sabin for the United States hold court on the west side of the same street for a salary of $3,000 or $4,000 per annum and pay their own personal expenses. To state the case is to argue it. Is justice a purchasable commodity to be counter balanced with money, or are we to select judges for their knowledge of law and their ability to apply it; their devotion to principle, and justice and self-respect, and pay them for their personal services? Is it pretended that this State has, or has had, better judges than the United States judges, who hold court at our Capital? If the services of District Judge and Circuit Judge for the United States can be procured for $3,000 or $4,000 per annum, why are we to pay $7,000? Are our judges more capable than they? Are we to continue our extravagant promises until it is impossible for us to meet them? Is it not time for us "to see ourselves as others see us," and, curtailing all unnecessary expenses, make a government adapted to the population of a State of fifty thousand people, a government the expense of which this State can meet.

Wm. Galloway, the oldest locomotive engineer in this country, recently guided a train at the rate of a mile a minute over a portion of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Mr. Galloway is twenty-four years old.

AGRICULTURE VS. MINING.

In 1881 the corn crop of Illinois produced one hundred and two million, five hundred and five thousand, one hundred and forty dollars. In three years the value of the corn grown in Illinois equals the total value of bullion produced in Nevada in twenty years.

If we would prosper let us have agriculture and mining.

The Times-Review does not seem to have much sympathy for improvident Indians. Speaking of Cassidy's request of the War Department that rations be given Indians in Nevada, intending to tide them over the present inclement season when it is impossible for them to procure subsistence by ordinary means, it says: "We do not believe in tiding those people over the few cold months of the year. Let them suffer for a while, and perhaps habits of economy might be acquired. If their simple mode of living, with every mountain and every stream to hunt and fish in, with their regular annuities, will not keep them alive, let them starve."

FOREIGN TELEGRAPH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Weaving a Web Around the Phoenix Park Assassins.

DUBLIN, Feb. 15.

Patrick Cahill deposed that in passing Chapel Gate on the evening of the sixth of May he saw a car driving rapidly to Phoenix Park. One man on the car he identified as Carey. This completes the quartette of men who were on the car.

An old man named Flynn testified that he walked through the park little past Pálog road and saw a car standing on the grass; the driver was beside the horse. Further on four men were lying on a grassy slope, two on each side; saw James Carey sitting on a seat near the Gough statue; he left him in company with another man whom he did not know; he then saw Burke alight from a car and join Lord Frederick Cavendish.

Witness Hurley deposed that he saw four or five men lying at the place where the murder was committed. He identified Kelly as being among the group. Further on he saw a man and a car standing. He met successively the stationary car, Burke walking and a stranger (Flynn). The identification of Carey was complete.

He spoke to him while he was sitting on a seat. He recognized Kelly as the man he afterwards met near a clump of trees. Murphy, a laborer, identified Fitz-Harris as one who was waiting near a car with several others.

Apparently to-day will merely be used for the purpose of bringing forward all the witnesses who in traversing Phoenix Park saw groups of men waiting about. Evidence so far adduced is full for the Crown as confirming Kavanagh's statement, but has no startling interest. Meagle, one of the bicyclists, identified Brady as resting beside the road on the evening of the murder. He said he saw four men, one of whom was Brady, tussling. After further evidence corroborating Kavanagh's testimony the case was adjourned until Saturday.

The Ex-Empress and Prince Napoleon have an Interview.

LONDON, Feb. 15.

The London Times publishes an authoritative statement regarding an interview yesterday between the ex-Empress Eugenie and Prince Napoleon which, it says, has cleared up some private misunderstandings existing between the ex-Empress and the Prince, and led to the formal resignation of the latter as head of the Bonaparte family. The ex-Empress has not been called upon to express an opinion of her kinsman's general policy, and could, not consistently with the policy adopted by her while sojourning abroad assure her cousin of her best wishes for any constitutional action he may take. The recent visit of the Empress to Paris was a mark of sympathy with Prince Napoleon on account of his illegal arrest, not a respect for the views of his manifesto. She disclaimed participation in any unlawful or clandestine enterprise against the Republic. The Prince on his part states that if the popular vote should pronounce for the Republic he should bow to it. The Republic has never yet, he says, polled a majority of electors, and is, therefore, governed merely by virtue of popular apathy. If the Prince is banished he may come to London. He has no intention of abandoning his position in favor of his son. The latter was not privy to the issue of the manifesto, but there is no antagonism between him and his father. The general opinion in Paris political circles is that dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies will be followed past.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 16.

The situation to-night is probably more dangerous than any other time. Back water is coming through sewers in many places. The rising rate is over a foot an hour, every hour adding to the destruction of property. It is believed, however, the river will fall by to-morrow. The Gault House basement is flooded. River men predict higher water. It will probably rain before morning. Fires are put out under the water works boilers. There is fortunately twenty days supply in the reservoir. A few —In Washington yesterday there was received $1,000,000 worth of gold coined at New Orleans which is short $2 50 on the $100. An investigation is probable.

Ben Butler has expressed the opinion that under the provisions of the Fourteenth amendment women are entitled to vote. No wonder he is called the widow.

THE INUNDATION.

A Hope That the Worst Has Passed.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR THE SUFFERERS.

Mrs. Langtry Volunteers Her Services for a Benefit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 15.

Appeals for help come from Jeffersonville and New Albany, and supplies have been sent, some of which are already received. The Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State appointed a committee on distribution of funds appropriated by the Legislature. Reports from Lafayette, Peru and other points say the Wabash is rising rapidly and overflowing its banks. Serious damage from ice and flood is feared.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16.

The river reached its highest stage at 4 o'clock this morning when it stood 66 feet four inches. It began to recede at 5 and at 9 P.M. stood sixty-five feet and declined two inches the last hour. The estimated rate of fall will be increased all night, but there is ice coming which will check the fall if it does not give another rise. Then behind that is the rise from Pittsburgh, which may overtake the receding river. Men of experience, however, do not expect another flood of the dimension of the present one, on the basis that clear weather may fairly be said to have been reached. The work of relief is still the engrossing subject. Contributions in most liberal sums are coming in, mainly from citizens, all unsolicited. A number of contributions have been received from various cities, mostly New York and Chicago; one from New Orleans of over sixteen thousand dollars was added to the relief fund to-day, which now amounts to $58,272. The Masonic Relief Association received a consignment of boats from Cleveland and expect a life-saving crew with a boat tomorrow, to be used in Newport. Another consignment of boats is on the way from Sandusky. Until the water leaves the streets all will be needed to convey food and fuel.

The first drowning from boats occurred to-day. Two boys in a frail boat were gathering driftwood and one fell overboard and was drowned. Skiffs to-day crossed over from Newport and one or two small steamers carried loads of sight seers up and down between Newport bridge and the suspension bridge. In the town of Dayton, Kentucky, nine-tenths are under water. People have abolished the practice of paying for boating services. If anyone demands pay for carrying people or provisions to houses his boat is confiscated. In Columbus and other smaller suburbs the people devote their whole time to assisting each other. In many houses the last rise invaded parlors and pianos were swung to the ceiling. The disturbance of railroads affects the distribution of newspapers at a time when most in demand.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 15.

The State Legislature will amend its loan act and local capitalists will advance the money. There will be a benefit to-morrow night at the Grand Opera House. Langtry and Haverly's Minstrels volunteer their services.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 15.

The London Times publishes an authoritative statement regarding an interview yesterday between the ex-Empress Eugenie and Prince Napoleon which, it says, has cleared up some private misunderstandings existing between the ex-Empress and the Prince, and led to the formal resignation of the latter as head of the Bonaparte family. The ex-Empress has not been called upon to express an opinion of her kinsman's general policy, and could, not consistently with the policy adopted by her while sojourning abroad assure her cousin of her best wishes for any constitutional action he may take. The recent visit of the Empress to Paris was a mark of sympathy with Prince Napoleon on account of his illegal arrest, not a respect for the views of his manifesto. She disclaimed participation in any unlawful or clandestine enterprise against the Republic. The Prince on his part states that if the popular vote should pronounce for the Republic he should bow to it. The Republic has never yet, he says, polled a majority of electors, and is, therefore, governed merely by virtue of popular apathy. If the Prince is banished he may come to London. He has no intention of abandoning his position in favor of his son. The latter was not privy to the issue of the manifesto, but there is no antagonism between him and his father. The general opinion in Paris political circles is that dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies will be followed past.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 16.

The situation to-night is probably more dangerous than any other time. Back water is coming through sewers in many places. The rising rate is over a foot an hour, every hour adding to the destruction of property. It is believed, however, the river will fall by to-morrow. The Gault House basement is flooded. River men predict higher water. It will probably rain before morning. Fires are put out under the water works boilers. There is fortunately twenty days supply in the reservoir. A few —In Washington yesterday there was received $1,000,000 worth of gold coined at New Orleans which is short $2 50 on the $100. An investigation is probable.

Ben Butler has expressed the opinion that under the provisions of the Fourteenth amendment women are entitled to vote. No wonder he is called the widow.

JOTTINGS.

Minor Occurrences in and About Town.

Plenty of snow in Long Valley. Last night raised mischief with the water pipes again.

There is a sleighing on the upper part of the Geiger grade.

Don't forget the Reno Guard ball on Washington's birthday — next Thursday.

Travel on the roads is lighter than for a year past, on account of fear of bandits at this particular time.

J. K. Everett is still in business and invites customers to call and see what he has for sale in the grocery line.

It is proposed to bring out the bridge and feather the field who sells ice while the thermometer is below zero.

A cheap cigar is an abominable thing and makes a man smell sour and mouldy; but a good cigar, such as E. Meyer sells, is an aromatic delight to smokers.

Frank Perkins last night received a crop of thoroughbred fowls from Virginia. Any chicken has a pedigree up there that has survived two Democratic conventions.

The air this morning was as keen and incisive as that in the immediate vicinity of the North Pole, but as the sun got up the temperature changed to a pleasant degree.

Snow is still increasing in depth along the railroad track on the summit, owing to occasional squalls, which fill the cuts. Plows have all they can do to keep the road clear.

Geo. Becker has forwarded a general invitation to Eastern tourists to stop in Reno and take a glass of beer with him. The Pacific Brewery is well known way off in Boston.

The sending of valentines is admissible during the whole of the week, and the young folks can continue to send their missives, whether as tokens of affection or of innocent mischief.

Eighteen car-loads of cattle went last night and six more this morning. It this keeps up there will be a break in prices, as Texas and New Mexico beef is being shipped into San Francisco pretty fast.

Cheilovich & Co. are extending their business all over the coast. In every large town they have a branch house, similar to the Wino House in Reno, but none so large and fine as this. They can fill an order for a hundred barrels of liquor as well as for a single bottle. Call and see their splendid sample rooms.

In just ten years after declaring that he had seen a whale 130 feet long, a New Bedford sea captain was taken with spams and died. It is believed that the spams were brought on by regret that he hadn't made it ten feet more. That old skipper was in the same boat with a well-known Renovite who came near dying last night because he neglected to get his regular "night-cap" at Chase & Thyes. Dusy was sent for and he administered a big hot punch, when the man recovered.

PERSONALS.

W. B. Woods of Virginia is in town. Ad. Goldberg left for Susanville today.

A. J. Showers of Bodie is at the Palace.

Judge Harris returned to Alturas this morning.

Matt. Healey, the cattle man, went below this morning.

D. C. Wheeler, the sheep king, is registered at the Palace.

Wm. B. Tidmarsh left for Winnemucca this morning on his way to White Horse ranch.

General John R. Kittrell has been retained by J. Q. A. Moore to prosecute Bennett, the murderer of his brother, James A. Moore.

The Index says Speaker Varian made a very able and interesting argument on the railroad question night before last on the popular side of the question.

"Major" Wilson will learn the shoemaker's trade in prison. He will beat a lap-stone instead of beating railroads. It will probably be the only honest work he ever did.

Mrs. Julia Prescott leaves here this evening for San Francisco, where she will make her future home. Mrs. Prescott leaves many warm friends here who have known her and done business with her for years.

An Old Friend Heard From.

Lon Drexler, formerly of Virginia, is a stockholder in the Mega Pacific Commercial Company of San Francisco, and extensively engaged in the manufacture of oleomargarine butter. The California Legislature is putting the corporation to much trouble, and Drexler has developed into a first-class lobbyist. He talks oleomargarine with an energy that shows that he is well posted on the subject. His friendship for Senator Fair in the political campaign of four years ago was marked, and the part he took to carry Washoe county placed him in the front rank as a leader of the element who wanted $4 before casting their ballots. Drexler promises to surpass his former record in this last enterprise. Build better in any quantity you may want it can be furnished by Drexler & Co.

AARON Y. ROSS.

The Express Messenger who Stood Off the Bandits.

Ross is one of those solidly built men with a commanding presence which wins for him respect wherever he goes. He weighs over 200 pounds, is about six feet three inches high, of peasant address and a man of much intelligence. He was born in Maine, on March 22nd, 1835. He went to California in 1859. He engaged in mining, but not succeeding, he went to driving stage between Helena and Fort Benton, through a country infested with Flathead Indians. His next occupation, says the Salt Lake Tribune, was as shotgun messenger on the stages between Corinne and Hele- na. After this, he was express messenger on the Eureka and Palisade road. He then went to the Bodie and Carson route, after which he took a position on the Salt Lake and Pioche line. He then became messenger

BETWEEN OGDEN AND RENO,

On the Central Pacific. He has encountered many interesting incidents in his life in the West, which have shown his coolness and clear-headedness in times of trouble. His action at the attempted train robbery was a fine example of his coolness, by which the robbers were foiled and the passengers escaped being robbed. In describing that event he said that the first thing he did was to put the books and papers belonging to the Express in the safe and close it, after which he formed a barricade for his protection and awaited results, firing at the openings in the door whenever the robbers attempted, or he thought they attempted, to enter.

PROTECTING A DITCH.

Several years ago a large mining company in Idaho had trouble about water being turned from their ditch at a point up in the timber. Ross was asked what he would protect the ditch for, and he told them he would do it for $100 per day. This company thought enormous and they suggested that they could employ men at $10 per day. Ross told them if they wanted cheap men to employ them, but they finally concluded to send him. He went up to the place, took possession of the cabin, cooked his own meals, and kept a close watch on the ditch. The intelligent parties came around and were about to begin the work of taking the water from the mining company, when Ross told them they had better desist if they did not want to go to the penitentiary. His pleasant, but determined manner, and the sight of the gun was enough for the protection of the ditch. He remained six days, when he was called in and paid off.

Two cheap men were sent up to take his place. Ross told the company that these cheap would not hold the water long, and his prediction proved true. A few hours afterwards the men were driven off, and they rushed into town to ask protection. It was only last March that he captured Tremain at Ogden, amid the promiscuous shooting going on at the time, and just after Tremain had snapped a revolver at him, so closely that Ross would have been killed if the charge had exploded, and yet Ross was the coolest person of all among the hundreds around the depot at the time. He still has his left hand tied up, but it is nearly well of the effects of the shot he received at Montello. At that time his body was struck twice with balls, a pocket-book and some letters preventing his being hurt.

PLUMAS ITEMS.

Desultory Jots from a Solvent Section.

The following items are from the Greenville Bulletin of February 14th:

The Board of Supervisors have appointed George Standart Public Administrator.

The saw mill near the race track has been sold by C. H. Lawrence to C. Lee of Quincy, who will move it to the Humboldt valley.

A new tunnel has been started on the west side of the hill from the Taylor-Plumas mine, and near the Stampfert ranch. The claim is owned and the tunnel run by Martin Fritsch, J. P. Martin and Adam Hoffman. The entire ridge is believed to contain valuable quartz veins.

While at work on the parsomage last Friday Edmund Northrop stumbled and fell forward, coming down with his right hand in a tool box where a drawing knife was lying, edge up. His thumb came down on the knife, cutting the end almost completely off.

A child of Charles Stevens upset a lamp the other evening, and in an instant the oil was in flames, but they were smothered with a blanket before the child was seriously burned.

A Fair Winter for Stock.

Cattle have got through the winter in good shape thus far, and it is likely that few will be lost. The cold weather must be mostly over now, and what snow comes cannot lie very long. There is a great deal of hay on the Humboldt and it is still cheap, so that cattle can be fed if necessary.

A Cold Weather Item.

The following item will be worth knowing to some of the GAZETTE readers: To keep warm when riding in the cold, put a common lantern under the lap robe, and if the robe is well tucked around, the feet and limbs will be as warm as sitting by a stove.

ENSILAGE EXPLAINED.

Green Food for Cattle all the Year Round.

There is nothing mysterious or incredible about ensilage. It is simply the application to the food of cattle of the same general principle as that by which fruit, berries and vegetables are prepared for our tables. Our winter board is spread with summer luxuries almost as fresh and delicious as when gathered in the gardens and orchards. An immense business has grown up within the last 20 years, giving employment to thousands of people, and adding immensely to the stock of delicious and nutritious food. So far as our viands go, with every delicacy of every season perfectly preserved, we live in a perpetual summer. A silo is merely a huge can in which green corn and clover, and other crops on which cattle feed most ravenously in summer, are kept fresh and sweet, with all their juices in them, till summer comes again. The cattle are kept in cornfields and clover pastures the whole year round. Instead of evaporating all the sweetness, all that is nutritious and milk producing, by drying these crops in the sun, everything is preserved intact, and the herd lives on summer food in mid-winter as well as in June. This is ensilage. It is merely canned corn and clover. It is simply July through the season, so far as the food and milk of cattle are concerned.

A GENUINE TRAMP.

A Professional Dead-beat who Travels Scot Free.

There was a genuine tramp on the streets last night. He was encased in what was once a good suit of clothes, but had become so dilapidated as to be a mass of tatters that waved in the breeze like the notched edges of an awning. Like Robert Macaire, he was a tony gentleman, and had a Jacques Sstrap for a consort. Where he came from or where he was bound no one knew, but he said he could travel all over the country without paying a cent. He has done nothing but "tramp" for ten years, and didn't propose to do anything else. "Mules and fools work," said he, "and I'm neither; but ain't you got a spare half for us fellows to eat on?" Of course the gentleman got it—he did, to be sure. He said he intended to beat his way to Cincinnati and become one of the flood sufferers.

Genuine Friendship.

The old heroic style of friendship is not yet forgotten among men, with all the advances of knowledge and science and the multiplied motives of the most enlightened self-interest.

WEAN AND BUCKLY CHILDREN, who are from Jason and Helen, the parents of the two college friends who met in Texas recently, one an old settler, the other just arrived. The new-comer, finding that his friend was a reporter, invited him to call at the hotel next morning for an item, went home and deliberately committed suicide just before the hour appointed, so that his friend might have the first chance at the sensational. Here was a friend! Whence comes such another!

For the experience of reporters is like that of other men, that your friend of early days is generally not even good for an item when you meet him.
